

Laureate Awards – Frequently Asked Questions

What is the nomination process for a new nomination?

The primary nominator is responsible for collecting and merging all required documentation and submitting via email to laureate@endocrine.org.

What is the process for a nominator updating an existing package?

The primary nominator may choose to update an existing nomination with an updated CV, citation, or letters of support; these updates must be sent to laureate@endocrine.org.

Who is eligible to submit a nomination?

Endocrine Society members may submit Laureate Award nominations.

Who can be nominated for a Laureate Award?

With the exception of the Sidney H. Ingbar Award for Distinguished Service, nominees may be members of the Endocrine Society or non-members, domestic or international. Only members of the Endocrine Society are eligible to receive the Sidney H. Ingbar Award for Distinguished Service.

Who selects the Laureate Award winners?

Laureate award winners are selected by the Endocrine Society's Laureate Awards Committee.

Can I nominate someone for more than one award?

An individual may not be awarded more than one award in a calendar year and therefore, multiple nominations for an individual across the same or multiple awards will not be accepted by the Laureate Awards Committee. Please choose the most appropriate award that highlights your accomplishments.

Can two people share an award?

Yes, the Laureate Awards Committee will consider joint nominations and/or nominations for a group.

Will I receive a confirmation after submitting an on-line nomination?

You will receive an automatically generated confirmation following the submission of the on-line nomination form.

When are the awards presented?

The Laureate Awards are presented at the Endocrine Society's Annual Meeting.

I submitted a nomination – Will I be notified if my nominee is selected to receive an award?

Irrespective of the results, nominators will be notified if their nominee was selected to receive an award.

When does a nomination expire?

Nominations will be active for two award cycles. If a nominee is not selected for an award in a given year, the nomination will remain active for the following year's award cycle. Although not required, nominators are strongly advised to submit revised supporting documents if they will strengthen the nomination package, i.e., list of publications and CV.

I have a question that is not addressed – Who should I speak to?

Direct inquiries to laureate@endocrine.org or you may call the Endocrine Society at 202-971-3636 and request to speak to someone on staff in the Executive Office.
